

Why Choose C.W. Post?

Few colleges can match our individualized approach, nationally acclaimed career services, small class sizes, and magnificent campus setting.

C.W. Post is considered one of the most beautiful college campuses in America. Located on 307 wooded acres on Long Island's famed Gold Coast, our private campus is only 50 minutes away from the excitement of New York City.

We are the clear choice for so many different students because we offer a large and diverse selection of degree programs – 106 to be exact, and over 1,000 courses. Our classes are small, averaging only 20 students, and are taught by renowned professors. The C.W. Post Campus educates more than 5,400 undergraduate students from around the globe.

C.W. Post is home to a major university research library with 2.8 million volumes, and to modern facilities such as the Winnick Student Center and Pratt Recreation Center. Students have access to wireless Internet stations, more than 1,000 activities each year, varsity sporting events, and the world-renowned Tilles Center for the Performing Arts.

C.W. Post is part of Long Island University – one of the most comprehensive private universities in the country – which educates more than 24,000 students throughout the New York metropolitan area.

Scholarships and Financial Assistance

Every year, C.W. Post distributes over $100 million in scholarships and financial aid. More than 85% of our students receive some form of aid to help meet college expenses. Our Financial Assistance Office will help you develop a financial aid package combining, as appropriate, government aid programs, Long Island University scholarships, student earnings, loans and other scholarships.

Taking Steps Toward a Career in Law

Pursuing a career as an attorney ... Preparing for important law school admissions exams ... Securing internships that match your ambitions ... Networking with practicing attorneys and legal professionals

C.W. Post provides a solid foundation for students planning to become law professionals. The American Bar Association recommends that students interested in law pursue any undergraduate major that they find both interesting and challenging, while taking advantage of opportunities to develop research and writing skills.

You may choose to major in subjects that are considered to be traditional preparation for law school, such as history, criminal justice, English, philosophy, political science, economics or business, or you may focus your undergraduate studies in areas as diverse as art, music, science, mathematics, computer science or education.

At C.W. Post, we offer more than 100 baccalaureate degree majors, all of which can be adapted to a future career in law. No matter what degree program you choose, you can integrate law related course electives into your studies. Special scholarships are available to students interested in this field.

About C.W. Post's Pre-Law Advisement Program

C.W. Post's Pre-Law Advisement Program has helped hundreds of students achieve their goal of becoming attorneys. An experienced pre-law advisor individually assists students in making appropriate course selections, understanding how to prepare for the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) and researching and applying to law school. Pre-law advising is available in your freshman year.

COURSE SAMPLER:

- Constitutional Law
- American History
- Basic American Government
- Symbolic Logic
- Advanced Expository Writing

Internships . . . Jobs . . . Connections

C.W. Post's nationally recognized Professional Experience and Career Planning (PEP) office organizes internships that allow you to explore the field of law. Our students intern with Federal District Court judges, Nassau and Suffolk County officials, law firm and legal publishers. These internships often result in valuable recommendations to accompany law school applications.

CAREER OPTIONS:

- Trial attorney
- Entertainment lawyer
- Prosecutor
- Legal aid
- Sports agent
- Tax counselor
- Corporate counsel
- ...and many more

At C.W. Post, many opportunities exist for you to connect and interact with practicing attorneys from various fields of law.

The Pre-Law Association – This student-run organization sponsors campus visits by guest speakers from the legal profession as well as law school admissions counselors. The Association also provides a support system as students prepare for the LSAT and navigate the law school application process.

Pre-Law Night – C.W. Post's Pre-Law Association hosts a "Night of Networking," a popular event where college students are invited to meet and mingle with practicing attorneys from the metropolitan area.
